Ghostwriting your book

You've gained so much expertise during your career and you'd love to share it with others in a book.

Writing a book can help you shout about your success, position you as an industry expert and generate new business leads. Alternatively, you may want to record your life story or that of a relative so family members can keep it forever.

You might have made a start on your book but not found time to finish it. Or it might still be a series of ideas in your head or a notebook.

As a ghostwriter, I can turn your ideas into a professionally-written book ready for you to publish as an e-book, get printed as a physical book or submit to publishers.

"Jackie helped me to realise a bucket-list ambition of publishing my book. I had written the words but couldn't move the project forward. Jackie helped me to get my thoughts in order and proof read the book. She got my book to a place where I could successfully launch within a super quick turnaround time. I would highly recommend."

How it works

- We start with a customer questionnaire and strategy meeting to agree what you want to achieve with your book and what it will cover.
- This is followed by a series of interviews to find out your ideas and experiences.
- I create a professionally-written draft book manuscript to your chosen length, then work with you to make any amends.
- You have full ownership of your manuscript (my name doesn't need to appear anywhere) ready to self-publish or submit to a publisher.
- From start to finish, the process takes between two and four months. You pay in three instalments (at the start, once the first draft is sent to you, and once amends have been made.)
